

I've heard stories about the proposed changes only on PBS and am surprised that there isn't more uproar. I assume that those in favor of the changes don't want the public to be aware of what's happening until it's too late.

Free flow of information and access to communications are absolutely necessary for a democracy to function.